AF

Al was with Walgreens for most his life. He took over a store where I was an assistant manager(Peoria, AZ). We bumped heads but ended up talking things through. Al said we were alot alike. Al's office was the stockroom, where he smoked a pipe and left 30 to 40 cases of empty boxes he had hussled up..., always in early, showing us all how much merchandise he could work out. He did work hard and could be a pain in the butt. That Italian attitude. Lol. He was old school and did not take alot of bs. Funny, he would go around customers shopping carts and secretly place a candy bar or two in the cart when they weren't looking..., have to push sales one way or the other. I just happen to do a search on Al to see if he was still around. He will always be remembered. Condolences to the family. Regards, A. Flores
