“ Jenny was a bright light at Children's Memorial Hospital for years! Each morning as patients, families and staff passed through the hospital's main entrance, she greeted us always with cheer and often in song. Her very caring and kind presence gave the same life and courage that she would later show in her work after the sudden, tragic death of her beloved son. Though her heart was deeply shattered and it was very hard to show any cheer after her son's death, Jenny courageously continued to try to be a caring, kind and compassionate presence to all. In doing so, she had become a wounded healer. May we all take courage from Jenny's witness and life of service. Jim Manzardo

“ My heartfelt sympathy to Jenny’s family. I knew Jenny when she sang a greeting to us each morning at Children’s Memorial in Lincoln Park. We honored the loss of her son in hopes of Jenny starting to sing once again. We remained friends when we moved to a new hospital location. Her family and friends were her greatest love and passion. Jenny will remain in my heart as a loving soul who made time for us all and reminded us to remain happy and faithful.

Thank you Julia! I’ve tried to find you in many ways. That’s when I finally decided to post it on the hospitals website.

“ Jenny was a wonderful mother of two children that she adored, and she was so very proud of her two grandchildren. She always spoke about them with a sparkarling glimmer in her eyes. She loved life, worked hard and played harder. She was young at heart and always wore fashion foward clothing, it was her thing. She gave me my first Este Lauder lipstick, I remember her makeup was always gorgeous. We worked together at Weiss hospital, every time we saw each other we had wonderful conversation and I always felt we had a unique bond. I hope she is reunited with her son in heaven. Jenny...thank you for sharing your beautiful spirit! You will be missed.
