“ I really don't have any stories to tell, she was my cousin for 66 years, my older cousin, kind of looked up to her like an older sister. When they lived in Chicago, they were by my mom and dad's house a lot. I never remember talking bad about anyone, always had a good thing to say about anyone. Always full of stories about growing up and hanging with Auntie Carmy, hanging out at our house, Uncle Al was tough on his kids, I remember them going home at 6pm on Sundays because Patty, Al and Richie had to be in bed early on a school night. She spent a lot of time with us, and it was nice to have her around. I don't want to babble on, but Patty, you will be missed by anyone that met you, you were a loving person that wasn't afraid to show your love to people, The Del Medico's will miss you, your stories, and just your niceness, I guess that's a word. You are truly loved by all of us. Be in peace.

“ Lisa, the first time I met your mother Bill & I came to visit Sheila in Gifford, Sheila told me we have to meet Lisa's parents, and when we did, I personally fell in Love with your Mother, her smile just glowed on her face. Our Love & Prayers to your Father, brother his family and to you, Eric and your family. She was a great and best friend the kids could of had in a Grandma. Our continued Prayers for everyone at this time.

Much Love, Bill & Cathy Richards 🙏🙏❤️❤️

“ Nick and I were room mates in college. We'd always play pranks on each other. He usually got the best of me. One of the pranks we'd do was to hide each other's class ring. I would get so upset when I couldn't find it only to look over at Nick and he's laughing at his desk. So, one day I was spending time with him at his parents house. We were listening to music in his room when he left. I saw his ring and thought this is MY time!! I put it in the mouth of one of his mounted fish he had on his wall. No way did I think he'd find it. Low and behold the next week at school he was wearing it. I couldn't figure it out. I asked him about it and he "didn't know what I was talking about"! I was so mad. A couple weeks go by and he comes back to school laughing. He asked his Mom about it and she said, "Oh, yeah! Inwas cleaning your room when I saw it...I thought this is a weird place to put Nicky's ring? So, I put it back!" Nick smiles and says that I'll never get one past him.
