“ My heart goes out to you Phil, Bobby, and Alicia. Mr. Anzaldi, to me, was always smiling and laughing unless we burnt something in Elmhurst down, then it was a whole other story. Soon, it will be a year since we lost our father and my heart still hurts every single day. I wish I could tell you time heals pain but honestly part of me died when my father passed. That part I'll never get back. Remember the good times and cherish the memories you have. As a father I now know there isn't a perfect dad here on earth, as I fail pretty much everyday at it, but we have a perfect loving Father in heaven who feels our pain. Trust in Him and His peace that passes all earthly understanding. As a neighbor I always knew the love was there between you all and "Mr.A". The love was always there even when we were in trouble and Mr. Anzaldi had to crack some heads and straighten us out. Boy we had some laughs for sure. Bobby not a month goes by that I don't start laughing out of the blue when I think of you, your fishing pole, and the stuffed animal you use to drop out of Tommy's tree in front of the stop sign. Man we would laugh so hard watching from our window our faces hurt after. Or the time that Phil made the blowtorch with the lighter and hairspray and just before it blew up he tossed it to Bobby. Can you believe we are all still alive? Man we did some really dumb things for sure pretty much every day. Ok. I will be praying for you all so you can get through this very difficult season of your lives. I'm here if you guys ever want to get together. Take care. Greg
